

The player uses his newfound expertise of stealth to grab the last collectible from the northern sector, and again retreats to the center hall.

The player escapes through the door, onto the actual beginning of the game, where the levels are more complex and advanced.